

Notes on Contributors

Su Jianbo currently is a PhD candidate at the Center for Research in Language and Linguistics, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, National University of Malaysia (UKM). His research interests mainly focus on the Chinese diaspora, postcolonial literature, psychogeography, and postmodernism. His work is featured in a referred journal Akademika: Jurnal Sains Sosial dan Kemanusiaan Asia Tenggara, indexed in Web of Science, ESCI.

Email: p109015@siswa.ukm.edu.my

Shanthini Pillai (PhD) is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, National University of Malaysia (UKM). Her research interests are anchored primarily in ethnic diversity, diaspora and transnationalism in literary and cultural texts with particular reference to the global South Asian diaspora. An emergent interest is in the cultural consciousness of Catholic diasporic Indians and Chinese in Malaysia. She has headed a number of research projects on transnationalism and cultural identity and has also participated in transnational research projects. She has held Research Fellowships at the University of Queensland, Australia, the Asia Research Institute, Singapore and Université Catholique de l'Ouest, France.

Email: spillai@ukm.edu.my Chithira James is a Research Scholar (English) in the National Institute of Technology Calicut, India. She studies the politicization of food and representation of subaltern food in contemporary Malayalam films. She has published a paper in the journal SARE: Southeast Asian Review of English. Her book chapter on the Malayalam film director P. Padmarajan is accepted for publication in the Refocus series by Edinburgh UP. She has presented papers in various national and international conferences. Her research interests include food studies, critical caste studies, film studies and gender studies.

Email: chithira_p190114ms@nitc.ac.in Reju George Mathew is an Assistant Professor (English) in the National Institute of Technology Calicut, India. His PhD research dealt with Dalit religious conversions, caste and modernity in Kerala. He has presented papers in several international conferences in India, UK and Spain, and was a DAAD-funded exchange research scholar in Technische Universitat Dresden, Germany (2011). He has published several papers on Indian films, food, caste, gender and sexualities. His research interests include religious studies, food studies, postcolonial studies, film studies, colonial modernity, Dalit Christianity and identity formations.

Email: rejugm@nitc.ac.in Christian Jil Benitez is a poet, scholar, and translator from the Philippines. He teaches at the Ateneo de Manila University, where he earned his AB-MA in Filipino literature. He is currently pursuing his PhD in comparative literature at Chulalongkorn University in Thailand. His first book Isang Dalumat ng Panahon (ADMU Press, 2022) received the Philippine National Book Award for literary criticism and cultural studies. His translation of the poetry collection Arasahas by Jaya Jacobo is forthcoming from Paloma Press.

Email: cbenitez@ateneo.edu

Anshul Dhankar is a research scholar in the Department of English and Modern European Languages, Banasthali Vidyapith, Rajasthan. She has also obtained her Master of Philosophy (M.Phil) and Master of Arts (M.A.) from Banasthali Vidyapith. She has presented research papers at various national and international conferences. Her research interests include Body Politics, Feminism, and Gender Studies.

Email: anshuldhankar@gmail.com

Devendra Kumar Sharma at present teaches English in the Department of English and Modern European Languages, Banasthali Vidyapith, Rajasthan. He has more than 9 years of teaching experience. He received Government of India Fellowship, MHRD. He did his Ph.D. from Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee, Roorkee. Qualified UGC NET (National Eligibility Test). He is also a Gold Medalist of the University of Lucknow. He has published a number of quality Research Articles (International and National/ Scopus/ Web of Science). Seven books have also been published from prestigious publishing houses like Cambridge University Press, Authors Press etcetera. His interest areas are Postcolonial Literature, Communication, Language and Linguistics, English Language Teaching, Feminism, Ecocriticism.

Email: devendra999iitr@gmail.com

Dhiman Roy is currently pursuing his doctoral research from Bodoland University, Kokrajhar, Assam. He completed his graduation and post-graduation in English Literature from University of Gour Banga, West Bengal. He has qualified NET with JRF in the year 2020. His research interest lies in Disability Studies, Indian Disability Writing, and Indian Literature in English, among others.

Email: dhimanroy.dr.1997@gmail.com.

Dwitiya Sarkar is a Ph.D. student in English Literature at the Indian Institute of Information Technology Design and Manufacturing Jabalpur. Having excelled in the National Eligibility Test (NET) three times and securing a Junior Research Fellowship (JRF), her research focuses on Trauma and Memory studies. Dwitiya has presented her work at international conferences, including the 'Memory in a Digital Age' conference at IIT Madras and the 'Memory, Forgetting, and Creating' conference in Poland. She also contributed to the International Conference on the "PLASTIC TURN" at North Bengal University, and presented a paper at Jadavpur University as well.

Email: 21pdeo01@iiitdmj.ac.in

Rex Tan Chwan Shiuh is a journalist by trade and a poet at heart. As a Malaysian, he is fluent in English, Mandarin, and Malay yet he calls none his first language.

Email: rexy.cs@gmail.com

Zainor Izat Zainal is senior lecturer at Universiti Putra Malaysia, where she teaches Malaysian literature in English, creative writing and miscellaneous other subjects related to world literature. Currently, she is Vice President of the Association for the Study of Literature and Environment ASEAN (ASLE-ASEAN) and Co-Chief Editor of Journal of Southeast Asian Ecocriticism. Her research interests include postcolonial ecocriticism and teaching literature in the Malaysian ESL context. She has been actively involved in producing student play productions in Universiti Putra Malaysia such as Atomic Jaya (2017), Toast! (2019), The Girl and The Ghost (2023) and When The Sun Sits on The Branches of That Jambu Tree (2024).

Email: zainor@upm.edu.my

Muhammad Syaukat Mustafa Kamal currently works as a lecturer at the Centre for Foundation Studies in IIUM, Gambang, teaching English language proficiency. As a doctoral candidate in English Literature at Universiti Putra Malaysia, his research focuses on affective ecocriticism in Malaysian literature, particularly the works of Cecil Rajendra.

Email: msyaukat@iium.edu.my

Noritah Omar received her Ph.D. from Indiana University, Bloomington, USA, in 1999. She is an associate professor with the English Department at Universiti Putra Malaysia, where she teaches Literary Theory, Malaysian Literature in English, and Feminism and Social Change. Her research interests include postcolonial literature and theory, the culture and politics of Islam in modern Malaysia, the history of Malaysian literary criticism, and the transformation of popular culture in Malaysia. She has published articles and book chapters on gender and Islam, Malaysian and Singapore Literature, Islam and modern Malay literature, and Islam and contemporary popular culture. She has also conducted research on issues in higher education and research methodology and ethics. Her current work focuses on new forms of intellectualism and its trajectories in literature and addresses questions of literature's intellectual place in the world.

Email: nomar@upm.edu.my

Soon-vin Lim studied English Literature and Chinese at the University of Malaya. He received his MA from Nanyang Technological University and earned his Certificate in TESOL from University of California, Irvine. He is a third culture kid raised in South East Asia while his roots can be traced back to North America. He is now teaching in an international secondary school in Singapore. He speaks English, Mandarin, Malay and French.

Email: soonvin@gmail.com

Debdatta Chakraborty is a doctoral research fellow at the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee, Uttarakhand, India. She is working on the area of Bengali Dalit studies with a special focus on caste-gender intersectionality and the impact of trauma on the Bengali Dalit community. She has presented papers in national and international conferences of repute.

Email: debdatta_c@hs.iitr.ac.in Sarbani Banerjee is an Assistant Professor of English at the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee, Uttarakhand, India. Her areas of specialization include Post-Partition Indian Literature and Cinema, Indigenous and Alternate Spiritualities, Postcolonial Literatures and Theory, and South Asian Literatures and Culture. She has published papers in journals of national and international repute.

Email: sarbani@hs.iitr.ac.in Nukhbah Taj Langah completed her doctorate from the University of Leeds in 2009, then joined Forman Christian College University, Lahore, Pakistan. She is currently affiliated with the Department of English, Universiti Malaya, Malaysia. Her research interests include resistance literature from South Asia, translation theory and practice, and South Asian diasporic literature. Her publications include Poetry as Resistance: Islam and Ethnicity in Postcolonial Pakistan (2011). A recent edited volume includes Langah, N & Roshni Sengupta (eds.) Volume I - Film, Media, and Representation in Postcolonial South Asia (Delhi: London: New York, Routledge 2021), and Literary & non-Literary Responses towards 9/11 (Delhi, London, New York: Routledge, 2019). She is a freelance translator and a political activist voicing the Siraiki community in Pakistan. In 2008, she collaborated with the Poetry Translation Center (London) and co-translated Pakistani Urdu poet Noshi Gillani with the British poet Lavinia Greenlaw (Poems: Noshi Gillani (Enitharmon, 2008). She was associated with CEIAS Paris (2016-2017) as a research fellow from 2016-2017 and was selected as Charles Wallace Fellow at the School of Oriental and African Studies in 2018. She is currently working on the Modern Endangered Archives Program (MEAP), UCLA (USA) supported research grant and her project is focused on “Archives of Siraiki Cultural and Political History in Pakistan”. Her forthcoming publications include several papers and several edited anthologies.

Email: nukhbahlangah@um.edu.my Aneesh Barai (he/they) is a Lecturer in Education and Children’s Culture at the University of Sheffield. They are an interdisciplinary researcher in education, children’s literature and media, researching youth cultures and literary/media representations of education. Their research interests are particularly on text and media representations of diverse childhoods and young people’s political agency, and they have written on queer, postcolonial and eco-activist childhoods in children’s literature, television and film.

Email: a.barai@sheffield.ac.uk

Tejash Kumar Singh is a full-time lecturer at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore. He received his Master of Arts in English at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore. He also pioneered the first dedicated English & Literature lecturing centre in Singapore (The Arts & Humanities Tuition Services). His research interests include 19th century American literature, slavery narratives, and the study of the depiction of slaves in abolitionist texts. He also has a keen, developing interest in 19th century Singaporean literature.

Email: tejash.singh@ntu.edu.sg

Debajyoti Biswas is an Associate Professor & Head of the Department of English at Bodoland University. He teaches Anglophone writings from India’s northeast and Critical Theory to Postgraduate students. His areas of interest include identity, nationalism, environment, and conflict in North East India. His research articles have appeared in many national and international journals published by T&F, OUP, Springer, Nature etc. He has three research projects to his credit; coedited Nationalism in India and Global Perspectives on Nationalism; and authored Anglophone Literature from Northeast India and Women's Writing. He is a member of the Association for the Study of Literature and Environment (ASLE), The Indian Disability Studies Collective (IDSC), the Postcolonial Studies Association (PSA) and the Association for Commonwealth Literature and Language Studies in India (IACLALS).

Email: debajyotibiswas.bu@gmail.com

Jayashree Haloi is an independent researcher. She has completed her Masters from Bodoland University in 2023. Her areas of interest include Environmental Humanities, Trauma Studies, and Psychoanalysis.

Email: haloijayashree99@gmail.com

Binayak Roy teaches in the Department of English, University of North Bengal. His research interests include literary theory, postcolonial literature(s), the Indian English novel, and Satyajit Ray's cinema. For his doctoral studies, he researched Amitav Ghosh's novels. He has published articles in Journal of Asia-Pacific Pop Culture, Postcolonial Text, South Asian Review, Nordic Journal of English Studies, ANQ: A Quarterly Journal of Short Articles, Studies in South Asian Film and Media, Asian Cinema Journal, Film International, Crossroads, and others.

Email: binayakroyeng@nbu.ac.in Debashrita Dey is a Senior Research Fellow (PhD) and Teaching Assistant of English in the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology Patna. She is currently working on literary gerontology for her doctoral thesis, and her areas of research interest comprise Feminist Studies, Disability Studies, and Health Humanities. She has published in Journal of Postcolonial Writing (Taylor & Francis), South Asian Popular Culture (Taylor & Francis), Journal of Aging Studies (Elsevier), Jindal Global Law Review (Springer), International Journal of Human Rights in Healthcare (Emerald Publishing), and other journals.

Email: deydebashrita@gmail.com

Priyanka Tripathi is an Associate Professor of English at the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology Patna (India). She is also the Co-Executive Editor of the Journal of International Women's Studies (published by Bridgewater State University). She has been awarded Visiting Research Fellowship (2022–23), by IASH, the University of Edinburgh, for her project titled “Optimizing Caste Inter-sectionality: A Decolonial Reading of Gender-based Violence in Select Subaltern Fiction in India”. She has published extensively in Indian Literature, Journal of Graphic Novels and Comics, GeoHumanities, and Economic and Political Weekly amongst others. She works in the areas of Gender Studies, South Asian Fiction, GeoHumanities, and Graphic Novels. Her ORCID iD is <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9522-3391>.

Email: priyankatripathi@iitp.ac.in Abhishek Ghosal currently works at the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology (Indian School of Mines), Dhanbad, Jharkhand. He holds M.A., M.Phil. and Ph. D (IIT Kharagpur) to his credits. His broad areas of research interest include Deleuze and Guattari Studies, Blue Humanities, Plant Humanities, South Asian Literature, Indic Studies, and Energy Humanities, among others. He has published articles in different leading academic journals like Symploke, New Global Studies, The CEA Critic, Southeast Asian Review of English, e-Tropics, and to name only a few. He has recently got an article published in The Monarch and the (Non)-Human in Literature and Cinema: Western and Global Perspectives (Routledge). His latest published monograph is titled Remapping Energopolitics: Blue Humanities, Geophilosophy and Sri Lankan Minor Writings (Routledge).

Email: abhishek.ghosal@jgu.edu.in Rishav Bali is a Research Scholar at School of Languages and Literature, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Shri Mata Vaishno Devi University, UT of J&K, India. His research interests include migration studies and forcibly displaced persons with special focus on gender and biopolitics, especially through multi-modal narratives.

Email: rishavbalirishavbali@gmail.com

Dr. Isha Malhotra (Ph.D., University of Jammu, India, 2019) is an Assistant Professor in the School of Languages and Literature, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at Shri Mata Vaishno Devi University, UT of J&K, India. Her research interests include cultural studies with specific focus on gender, neoliberalism and biopolitics. She has published research articles in journals like International Journal of Cultural Studies, Women's Studies, South Asian Review and South Asian Popular Culture among others.

Email: isha.malhotra@smvdu.ac.in Om Prakash Dwivedi is Associate Professor of English Literature at Bennett University, India. He is the author of Representations of Precarity in South Asian Literature in English (2022); Tracing the New Indian Diaspora (2014); and co-author with Lisa Lau of Re-Orientalism and Indian Writing in English (2014). Dwivedi is also the Vice-Chair of the global research network, Challenging Precarity.

Email: om_dwivedi2003@yahoo.com